Boy, 3, Crawls Into Abandoned Ice Box; Suffocates

MOORHEAD, Minn. (AP)—Dale Glawe, 3, crawled into an abandoned ice box with a toy telephone and his pet cat and closed the door. He was found suffocated two hours later.

Authorities said the little boy was playing about the ice box Sunday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Glawe. The Glawes have four other children.

His parents became alarmed when they could not find him, and after a two-hour search discovered the boy unconscious in the ice box. Dale was dead on arrival at a Fargo, N. D., hospital.

Clay County Coroner ruled the death accidental asphyxiation. The cat still was alive when Dale was found, but it had to be destroyed.

Truman Opens Democratic Fund Campaign

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman will receive starter sustaining membership card No. 1 today to launch a big national drive to finance the Democratic Party by small contributions.

The campaign opens when Paul W. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, presents the card to the former President at the Truman Library in Independence.

Democrats said the drive is the biggest such campaign in the nation's history.

Butler said the charter sustaining membership program is the first step of a campaign to finance the Democratic Party by regular small contributions from rank and file members.

"We believe that a healthy political party must be financed by widespread grass roots contributions," Butler said.

"This drive will be followed by a door-to-door solicitation of funds on October 11-12, called Dollars for Democrats Day. It and the sustaining membership plan will be annual events."

Sustaining members will give a minimum of $10 yearly.

Invitations to become charter sustaining members are now being mailed from the Democratic National Committee in Washington.

Butler said the intensive mail campaign from Washington will be followed by mail and personal solicitation by state and local Democratic committees.

He said this is the first time a major political party has conducted a sustaining membership campaign on a national basis.

Special Primary Tuesday to Fill McCarthy Post

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin holds a special primary Tuesday for the election to fill the U. S. Senate seat vacated by the death of Joseph R. McCarthy, and an upset was possible in the GOP race because of the candidates' apparent failure to arouse voter interest.

Seven Republicans are in the running. The expected turnout is no more than 500,000 voters. The winner probably won't get more than 100,000 votes, probably less.

At least four of the candidates—former Gov. Walter Kohler, former Rep. Glenn Davis, Rep. Alvin O'Konski and Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles—were capable of pulling that many votes. They're all proven vote getters.

Kohler, the three-time governor of the state, and Davis, who quit Congress last fall after 10 years to campaign unsuccessfully for Sen. Alexander Wiley's job, were favored. But, the expected small turnout and the large number of candidates, made the outcome doubtful.

Only two Democrats, both from the "liberal" wing of the party, were competing for their party's favor in the Aug. 27 general election to fill the vacancy left by McCarthy's death last May.

Democrat William Proxmire, who three times has tried to be governor, was the better-known statewide, but Rep. Clement Z. Blocki from Milwaukee's 4th District had strength in that populous area.

29 Injured in Racial Battle in Park in Chicago

300 Persons Take Part in Fight; 3,000 Onlookers

CHICAGO (AP)—Eighteen white youths appeared in Boys Court on disorderly conduct charges today in the wake of a racial fighting that flared for 10 hours over a two-square-mile area of the city's teeming South Side.

At least 29 persons were injured in a wild Sunday afternoon melee in Calumet Park and in sporadic street fights that continued until midnight.

Hospital emergency rooms were flooded with victims that attendants said an undetermined number of others slipped away after treatment without getting their names on hospital records.

Boys Court Judge Norman Eiser set bonds of $100 each for William Skeels, 18, and Leo Casale, 17, who were accused of launching an attack on Negro picknickers that touched off the wide-scale disturbances.

The judge set bonds of $25 each for 16 other youths, and continued the case of all 18 to Sept. 12. All of the accused youths are white.

Asst. State's Atty. William D. Reddy had urged bonds of $500 each and told the court: "Judge, this was no picnic."

Three other youths questioned by police were released.

Police officials beefed up their forces in the trouble area and cancelled days off for the uniformed force effective at 8 a. m. today until further notice.

Twenty-three persons were cut and bruised by flying stones, bricks, bottles and baseball bats.

At least six others were hurt in night-time disorders in the area which has been the scene of repeated racial disturbances since 1953.

The most seriously hurt was Marilyn Hultquist, 15, who was wounded in the foot by a ricocheting bullet from the revolver of policeman Willie Hunt, 35.

Hunt, a Negro, said he fired a warning shot to drive back a crowd when it began stoning him. He was injured in one eye when a brick struck him in the face.

Hunt's motorcycle was set afire and destroyed before police squads restored order.

About 300 persons engaged in the brawl and about 3,000 curiosity seekers were attracted to the scene.

Angus Breeders Ass'n Field Day at Tomlinson Farm

The Saline County Angus Breeders Ass'n held its annual field day at the L. F. Tomlinson farm near West Frankfort on July 28, with a fine attendance. One hundred people were present including women and children and they brought well-filled baskets for dinner.

Angus breeders attended the meeting from Saline, Franklin, Williamson and Johnson counties and visitors came from Tennessee and Missouri.

The American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Ass'n was represented by Vern H. Kercherger of Nashville, Tenn., who discussed classification of cattle and other matters of importance to Angus breeders.

Joe Gassard of the National Stockyards talked on the subject of promotion and gave the breeders some good pointers.

Two young members of the association, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Payne, were recognized as showing and winning the grand champions at the Franklin county fair last week. They also will show at the Saline county fair this week.

Mr. Tomlinson showed some very fine cattle at the field day and some of his cattle will be at the Illinois State fair.

The newly-elected officers for the year are Eugene Reynolds, president; Noel Bond, vice president; and Cecil Pulliam, secretary-treasurer.

EAST HIT BY DROUGHT—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nales examine drought-rained corn on a farm near Kinderhook, N. Y. Usually head-high at this time of year, the corn is unfit even for silage. Grand Ole Opry Show Is Big Attraction at Fair Tonight

Beauty Contest Will Be Held Tuesday Night; Junior Livestock Show During Day

The Saline county fair today began its second day with the Grand Ole Opry, direct from Nashville, Tenn., tonight's big attraction.

Patrons will have an opportunity to see in person some of their country music favorites, such as Judy Lynn, Johnny and Jack, Kitty Wells, the Dixie Rockers, the Tennessee Mountain Boys, Jimmy Dupree and Clyde Arnold.

This should be one of the biggest evenings of entertainment of the entire fair, officials stated today.

Tuesday night the annual Saline County Beauty contest will be held to find Miss Saline County of 1957. Twenty-four beautiful Saline county girls will compete for the title, with out-of-town judges deciding upon the winner by using a point system.

The beauty contest is always awaited with great anticipation. During the day Tuesday there will be the Junior livestock show. It will start at 9 a. m.

A presentation that has been here before, the Jack Kochman Auto Daredevils, will provide thrilling entertainment Wednesday night.

Mr. Kochman, who has been well-received here in the past, will present 28 thrilling acts—all daredevil stunts in automobiles.

Rain Sunday put somewhat of a damper on activities at the fairgrounds. A pretty good-sized crowd was on hand for the big car racing program, which was held up for about an hour while the car was badly damaged.

Taken to Murder Scene

Convicted Sex Offender Admits He Tortured, Killed Two Young Brothers

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP)—A convicted sex offender told police Sunday night how he forced two young brothers at knifepoint into a park where he mutilated them and set their bodies afire. It was almost the same spot where he assaulted another boy six years ago.

Raymond F. Ohlson, 20, who was released from Concord Reformatory last month after serving six years on a sex offense conviction, broke down after 15 hours of questioning. He was charged with murder.

He admitted the torture slaying of John Logan, 12, and his brother Paul, 10, of Stoughton. Ohlson said he set the boys' bodies on fire to hide his crime.

Police found a key near the naked and mutilated bodies of the brothers which led to Ohlson's arrest when investigators learned the key fit his apartment door.

A heavy-bladed Mexican hunting knife found in his apartment was the weapon Ohlson used to butcher the boys, along with a blood-

No Americans Among Those Killed or Seriously Injured

MEXICO CITY (AP)—New earth shocks today imperilled rescue workers digging out the living and dead victims of Mexico's worst earthquake in 48 years and threatened to topple already heavily damaged buildings. Two large office buildings were cleared of tenants.

Official estimates placed the mounting death toll at 55 known dead including 40 in Mexico City, and the injured anywhere from 510 to 657 in Mexico City alone.

No Americans were known to be among the dead or seriously injured.

Tourist sources estimated that "about 10 per cent" of American tourists have left the country for fear of further quakes.

However, most hotels were operating normally.

Rescued After 22 Hours

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Mexico City Mayor Ernesto Uruchurtu toured the hardest hit sections of the city this morning.

At least 14 bodies had been taken from the wreckage of a new five-

He assured his parents that he was not harmed by the earthquake and that Acapulco was not as hard hit by the earthquake as other cities in the area. Mexico City, he said, was most seriously damaged.

Miss Dorothy Durham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Durham of Galatia, returned to her home from Acapulco, Sunday. She had been with the same vacationing group of teachers as Mr. Davenport and returned with the part of the group that left Acapulco ahead of the others.

One woman victim was removed alive from the wreckage after being buried for 22 hours. Rescuers said she was saved because she was caught between two mattresses.

In addition to the toll in Mexico City, the hardest hit, 9 were dead and 27 injured in the Guerrero state capital of Chilpancingo, 125 miles southwest of the national capital, and 4 were dead in the famed Pacific resort of Acapulco. The towns of Yolotla and Huamantla, also in Guerrero state, reported one dead each.

There was no confirmation of seven reported dead in Izmitiquipan, Hidalgo state.

Normal Sunday Pursuits

Latest reports from the state of Michoacan, where dispatches Sunday reported 72 persons killed in floods brought on by the quake, said there were no dead and that damage was slight.

Despite the damage and tragedy in the quake's aftermath, thousands of Mexico City residents followed their normal Sunday pursuits.

An estimated 20,000 persons saw six mediocre bull fights at El Toro Palace. Thirty thousand witnessed a soccer match and another 10,000 saw a baseball double-header.

Kennedy Leads

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

It wasn't too long back that it was fair to complain over the lack of 1960 presidential speculation on the Democratic side. Now all that has changed and the horses are off and running.

The early front runner is clearly Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts. Not only was his name quick on the tongue of Democratic governors at the recent governors' conference, but polls show him the present top favorite of rank and file Democrats across the country.

No politician with his feet on the ground is likely to forget that it is a long, hard road from the first promising mention to the acceptance speech before a cheering nominating convention.

After 1952, Adlai Stevenson read and heard many times that he could have the 1956 nomination for the asking. But when it came to the test he had to battle hard for it, even though he was always the leading candidate. Not too often do the major parties give away their top prize on a platter.

In Kennedy's case, there may of course be many opponents. Some already are in the picture.

But the young senator seems to have quite a few points going for him.

He is handsome, friendly and open-handed in manner. As first a congressman and now a senator, he has established a reputation for forthrightness and fair dealing.

In 1952 Kennedy proved himself a powerful vote-getter in his home state, unseating Henry Cabot Lodge in a year when President Eisenhower was sweeping the nation. He is up again next year and will get a further chance to show what his appeal is at the polls.

The effect of his being a Catholic is difficult to gauge. So far the party men who are talking candidate do not appear to regard it as a serious bar to Kennedy. Some knowledgeable observers believe it is a misreading of the election returns to blame Al Smith's presidential defeat on his Catholicism.

In any event, Kennedy in mid-1957, a full three years before nominating season, is the man to beat. There are signs he may be acceptable to both the South and the North, which is not an easy circumstance to bring off.

But first he has to win again in Massachusetts. And then he will have to buck what may be a highly formidable list of competitors in what surely is the most rugged competition any politician can encounter.

Production of bituminous coal in the five leading states (W. Va., Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois and Ohio) was 412,500,000 tons in 1956, or slightly more than 82 per cent of the 500,000,000-ton national total.

No matter what members of Congress say on the floor of the House or Senate, they cannot be sued for libel.

Ol' General Less-Boom-for-a-Buck

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson says: Trujillo Dickers with Ex-White House aide to represent him; John Foster Dulles doesn't want Marshal Zhukov to come to Washington; Ike does want him.

WASHINGTON.—It isn't supposed to be announced, but dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic is negotiating to retain president Eisenhower's former appointments Secretary, Tom Stephens.

In the same deal, the Caribbean Caesar will get the services of the outgoing American ambassador to his country, William Pfeiffer, who has joined Stephens' law firm. Pfeiffer left Trujillo's capital last month, but is still drawing his ambassador's pay.

Trujillo has already thrown some lucrative sugar and shipping business to the president's brother-in-law, Gordon Moore. He also sent his personal plane to fly Secretary of State Dulles' son-in-law, Robert Hinshaw, to the Caribbean. Hinshaw was willing to use his influence to boost the Dominican Republic's sugar quota, which is set by Congress on the advice of the state department. But Hinshaw stayed with his family for three months, ran up a large hotel bill at Trujillo's expense, wore out his welcome and finally went home without a deal.

The Dominican dictator is eager to curry favor in Washington not only for the sake of his sugar trade but to avert any diplomatic retaliation over the alleged murders of his political enemies on American soil.

At least nine murders have been charged to Trujillo's goons. Most celebrated was the disappearance of Columbia Professor Jesus Galindez and the later killing of American aviator Gerry Murphy.

President Eisenhower finally ordered the FBI to investigate these cases, but so far nothing has come of the FBI investigation. How Stephens will help the embattled dictator remains to be seen. The Ex-White House aide personally flew to the Dominican Republic to talk terms with Trujillo. He also toured the Caribbean with an eye to business with other Latin American republics.

Zhukov Snafu
The snafu over the proposed invitation to Marshal Zhukov to come to Washington is as mysterious as it is important.

President Eisenhower has long wanted to confer with his old war time buddy. Three days after he indicated this at a news conference, however, the White House issued an official statement—while Ike was at Gettysburg—stating that there was no plan to invite Zhukov.

Here are the inside reasons for the snafu:
No. 1—John Foster Dulles has long been suspicious of any talks between his chief in the White House and Marshal Zhukov. He's afraid Ike would be too glibly, would give more than he received.

On the other hand, Allen Dulles, younger, smarter brother of the secretary of state, who runs the central intelligence agency, feels that a visit would be important. Dulles and his CIA men have long kept an eye on Zhukov, consider him one of the most important powers in the Soviet Union. They think a meeting between the president and Zhukov could do no harm, might do a lot of good.

The defense department is also strong for such a military meeting. Gen. Nate Twining, new chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, went to Moscow a little over a year ago, would like to see the head of the Russian air force invited to the U.S.A. But John Foster Dulles has blocked it.

No. 2—Is opposition from France, England and West Germany. Our western allies have been suspicious for some time that the United States might arrange a separate deal with Russia. This is one reason they have given Harold Stassen such a bad time in his disarmament talks.

For years the thing the British feared most in regard to the United States was a separate agreement between the U. S. and the U.S.S.R.

President Eisenhower has a lot of confidence in his own ability to work out relations with Russia through Marshal Zhukov on a personal basis. But John Foster Dulles does not. Dulles, in the end, overruled the president.

Washington Pipeline
Correction: In reporting Superior Oil's sudden increase in stock value following the House Interstate Commerce committee's approval of the natural gas bill, the comma was misplaced in recording the number of shares traded, so that the figure of 21,000 shares traded on the day the committee okayed the bill should have been 2,100. Other days' sales should be scaled down proportionately. However, the increased value of the stock remains as reported—$30 per share that day, $40 on July 11, $90 on July 12, etc. The fact that Superior Oil increased so much despite the relatively small number of shares traded emphasizes all the more the value which the gas bill will be to the company which attempted to bribe Senator Case of South Dakota. It remains one of the highest priced stocks on the market.

Marty Snyder, Ike's former mess sergeant, is now selling canned beef stew British-fashion, "As prepared and served to General Dwight D. Eisenhower." Sounds like "by appointment to her majesty." A year has passed since Ike, visiting in Panama, signed a bill for the building of a bridge across the Panama Canal so Panamanians can walk from one part of their country to the other without using ferries. But today money for the bridge is still bogged down in Congress. . . . Sour Panamanians have put across an edict that no Panama radio station can carry a commercial announcement or musical program recorded in a foreign country—chiefly aimed at the U.S.A. . . . Lloyd Wright, the Los Angeles attorney who wants to jail American newspapermen for trying to report the facts, should read J. Campbell Bruce's article in the Reader's Digest, "Three Days of Silence That Saved a Life." It tells how San Francisco newspapermen withheld the news in a sensational kidnapping case. . . . Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri repeatedly urged Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to present his views to the Senate on the right of American citizens to travel abroad freely, particularly in regard to American newspapermen in China. Dulles never accepted the invitation.

SAILOR LADD—Alan Ladd describes the wide open spaces of the range for the wide open spaces of the Pacific Ocean in his new picture "The Deep Six." The title is sailors' slang for burial at sea. Ladd is pictured above aboard the USS Stephen Potter, where he plays the part of the ship's gunnery officer, a Quaker who has qualms about ordering his gunners to "Open fire!"

Arkansas spent 4.8 per cent of its revenues for cost of government and miscellaneous general agencies during fiscal 1955-56.

SLEEPY TIME PALS—About as cute a picture as you could find is made by these pals as they nap together in Bournemouth, England. The eight-day-old fawn was only a day old when found, apparently orphaned. He has become quite a pal of 4½-month-old Robert Hughes whose father is superintendent of the animal shelter where the baby deer is being raised. Family named it, inevitably, "Bambi."

SIU's Community Development Featured In American Banker

CARBONDALE, Ill. —Southern Illinois University's efforts in behalf of towns seeking new industry are featured in the July 17 issue of American Banker.

Melvin C. Lockard, president of the National Bank of Mattoon and a member of the SIU board of trustees, authored an article which appears in the Area Development and Plant Site Section of the banking publication.

Major emphasis is on the work of the University's department of community development which is "educating citizens to meet their responsibilities." A photograph of Eldorado residents engaged in a beautification project on the city hall is included with the story.

In a community development town an industrialist will find "a physically attractive town seeking progress in industry and in every other fragment of the total community structure," Lockard writes. "He will find a place where people work harmoniously together and where he will be welcomed as a member of the team."

Examples of community action in Eldorado, Florida, Du Quoin and Mounds are among those cited in the article.

WANTED—TWO MEN FOR PERMANENT EMPLOYMENT

Tom Millikin, Bill Brown to Coach at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Two West Frankfort high school faculty members, Bill Brown and Tom Millikin, were added to the Southern Illinois University physical education staff in action by the SIU Board of Trustees this week.

Millikin was hired as the assistant basketball coach, while Brown will become an organizer of special coaching clinics and courses and will serve as consultant to area coaches. Both will teach courses in physical education in addition to their other duties.

Millikin replaces Fred Lewis, who resigned earlier this year, while Brown will take over a newly-created position.

A native of West Frankfort, Brown was an athletic star in both high school and college. He received his bachelor's degree from SIU, his master's from the University of Missouri, and at the present is working toward a doctorate at Indiana University.

Brown, 39, has been on the West Frankfort high school faculty since 1943. During that time he served as assistant coach of all sports for four years, head coach of all sports for four years, and athletic director for six years. A veteran of service with the United States Navy in World War II, he began his coaching duties as head coach and athletic director at Woodlawn high school in 1941.

A member of the 1948 state championship Pinckneyville high school basketball team, Millikin has been assistant coach in football and basketball at West Frankfort for the past two years.

Millikin, 26, is one of Southern's all-time greats in basketball serving as captain during the 1951-52 and 1952-53 campaigns before entering the Army. He returned to action during the 1954-55 season.

Both will begin their new duties in September.

A coal loading dock more than one-quarter mile long is being built on the Mississippi River near East St. Louis, Ill., for Peabody Coal Co. The 1,687-foot long dock will handle 19 coal barges simultaneously and the dock facilities can be expanded by 400 feet in each direction when necessary. The dock will help speed coal to Peabody's Mississippi River customers.

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

Last week a story in The Daily Register sports page referred to Harrisburg as champion of Junior Legion baseball, 24th district. It has been called to my attention by Rue Starr of the Norris City News that Harrisburg is not champion of the 24th district, but only champion of the 24th district tournament.

There is a difference. Starr, active in the Legion baseball program for several years, points out that regular league play continues until Aug. 18 and the champion is determined by results of all league games.

About half-way through the schedule teams take a break for the district tournaments, then all except the tourney winner resume league play. District winners advance to Division tournaments and as teams lose they return to their regular schedules.

The schedule runs through Sunday, Aug. 18. Then the district champ will be known. So Harrisburg has a chance to cop another trophy in addition to the one received after taking the tourney a week ago.

The Legion program is set up, Starr says, to keep all the boys participating in the Legion baseball program, busy throughout the summer.

Bob Taylor, the Metropolis baseballer who signed with the Milwaukee Braves for a bonus in excess of $100,000, was featured in a fine baseball story in the Chicago Tribune a week ago. Taylor is referred to as "Baseball's Richest Rookie."

It's later than we think! Football keeps pushing into the sports stories, although most sports fans are busy reading the National league standings these days to see if their favorite club is first or fourth.

A release from Eastern Michigan College was received a day or two ago announcing that 1957 football candidates will report to Head Coach Fred Trosko on Saturday, Aug. 31.

Eastern Michigan starts its schedule Sept. 21 and SIU will be the homecoming opponent Saturday, Oct. 26.

A new electrical football scoreboard will be ready for operation when the Marion Wildcats open their grid schedule. The board will be 8 by 18 feet in size and will have 24 inch lighted score figures.

The old score board, at the east end of the field, will be taken down and the new one erected on the same site.

At least two schools in the Greater Egyptian conference — Galatia and Pope County (Golconda) — are still looking for a coach. John Cherry was Galatia's coach and Gene Dick coached at Pope County high last year. Both have resigned and replacements have not been found.

Anna is looking for another basketball game or two to complete this season's schedule it is reported and Anna will take a date either at home or away. Bennie Purcell is the Anna cage coach and can be contacted at the high school.

Gene Haile, Eldorado native, has been named athletic director and head coach of all sports at McLeansboro high school.

Haile, an SIU graduate, has been named athletic director and head coach of all sports at McLeansboro high school.

He now takes over the basketball spot, made vacant with the resignation of Leon Richardson.

Haile, an SIU graduate, has picked two other SIU alumni to assist him in the McLeansboro athletic program.

Jim Beasley of Eldorado and

VFW Noses Out Thompsonville

Trailing 3-1 going into the last of the 9th and with 2 out and 2 strikes on Dick Odle, he slashed a hit with two men on and tied up the game and then Bob Dallas came through with a hit to left to score Odle and win the game. The game was played on VFW Memorial field Saturday night. This was the locals' 14th win of the season and put their league record at 7-3.

Raymon Tonazzi and Smith of Thompsonville hooked up in a tight pitching duel. Tonazzi pitched until one was out in the ninth and then Stout relieved him with two men on base and got credit for the win. Tonazzi pitched 6 hit ball up until the time he left the game and the locals had only 6 hits on Smith up until the big ninth. Tonazzi also started the big ninth with a long double and then Stout dropped a single and Odle and Dallas came through with their hits.

Stout, Romonosky, Proctor and Tonazzi led the hitters with two hits each and Odle and Dallas got single hits. Smith was the only Tiger to get two hits.

Wednesday night a game is tentatively scheduled with the Grayville baseball team of the Illinois-Indiana league.

Richard Jones, an upstate native, complete the coaching staff.

Jones has three years' experience, but this will be Beasley's first year in the coaching ranks.

Anderson Takes Office as New Sec'y Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Navy Secretary Robert B. Anderson today took office as the nation's 54th secretary of the treasury.

The new secretary refused to commit himself to any hard-and-fast course of carrying out financial policy in the days ahead as the successor of George M. Humphrey.

He said it would be "conjectural for me to try to say precisely what I will or will not do, or exactly how I will try to meet situations which may arise."

He said he will be guided by "What will best contribute to the general welfare of our country and our economy... at any given time."

After issuing his statement, Anderson turned salesman and sold Humphrey a $100 government savings bond. Humphrey had been forbidden by law to own any government securities while in office and did not become eligible to buy a bond until Anderson was sworn in.

President Eisenhower held the Bible with which the new secretary took the oath.

Two Settlements In Cement Dispute

By United Press

More than 400 union workers voted today to approve a new contract with the Universal Atlas Cement Co. at Allentown, Pa., and negotiators reached a similar agreement at the Keystone Portland Cement Co. in Bath, Pa.

The settlements at the two plants in Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley, a key cement-producing region, raised hopes of an early end to the three-month-long, nationwide cement strike.

Report Drop in Highway Deaths

CHICAGO (AP)—At least 1,000 lives will be saved in traffic this year if the nation's motorists maintain their safe driving trend during the second half of 1957, the National Safety Council said today.

Highway fatality figures for the first six months were down two per cent, the council said, despite an increase of 5 per cent in mileage figures for the first four months.

The council said 17,620 deaths were reported in the first six months of 1957. This compares with 18,020 for the same period in 1956.

DOUBLEDEALERS—In Lindy, left, and Von McDaniel, the St. Louis Cardinals have the counterparts of the brothers Dean, Dizzy and Paul, of the mid-30's. Again the Red Birds fly high.

McDaniel Takes One-Hitter in Stride; He's Satisfied He Finished the Game

ST. LOUIS — Von McDaniel had just missed baseball immortality by one swish of Gene Baker's bat, but the kid took that, like most other things, right in his stride.

"I'm happy for two big reasons," the St. Louis Cardinals' sensational 18-year-old bonus baby said. "First, because I won the game and second, because I finished it."

His one-hit conquest of Pittsburgh in the first game of Sunday's double-header was his fifth victory and his second shutout. But it was also only the second time he had gone all the way.

Von retired the first five Pirates he faced. Then the second baseman lashed a pitch to the left field corner for two bases. But Baker was the first and last baserunner.

"That was a real good pitch he hit," Von said. "I put the ball right where I wanted it but I guess he liked the pitch too."

Control and Variety
His brother Lindy, the older member of the pitching twosome at 21, was an attentive listener at the next locker.

"He didn't hit it good," he said with conviction.

"It sounded like it was on the handle," Von volunteered.

But this merely proved that the brothers stand as one man against that part of the world that swings a baseball bat against them.

Moments later, catcher Hoby Landrith gave his version, shared by most observers.

"Von pitched a great ball game," he said, "and he deserves all the credit for it. But Baker got real good wood on the ball. It was a hit all the way."

Landrith credited control and variety for the rookie's great effort.

"He was getting the ball where I asked for it, mixing up his pitches, and his curve ball was great," Landrith said.

Von was philosophical about his near miss.

Betting: Patterson favored at 5-1 to win, 8-5 for kayo.

Scoring: By referee and two judges on rounds basis, backstopped by four-point-possible system.

The boy was all the Cardinals required in the opener but they needed the combined efforts of three men to win the nightcap.

Eddie Kasko doubled to cap a three-run ninth-inning rally that tied the score, Hoyt Wilhelm held the Pirates scoreless for the next two innings and Joe Cunningham finally broke it up with his sixth homer of the season in the 11th inning.

Johnny Antonelli pitched a seven-hitter to beat the Braves for the fourth time, 2-0, but Milwaukee gained a split when Gene Conley whipped the Giants for the third time in 10 days, 5-3.

Willie Mays smashed four straight singles in the opener for the Giants while Ed Mathews' two-run, fourth-inning single was the big blow for the Braves in the second game.

The suspension meant that Dickens will not be able to participate in coaching the Hoosiers for the 1957 season and unless the university successfully bids for his reinstatement next December, he also will miss the 1958 spring practice and recruiting.

The penalty was imposed by the conference faculty representatives at a special meeting at which President Herman B. Wells of Indiana accepted the decision and expressed his confidence in Dickens.

It was the first penalty imposed by the conference under its new rule, adopted Feb. 22, basing all aid upon need with a stipulation that no athlete may receive more than the cost of education at the institution he attends. Likewise, it was the first time a football coach has been penalized, and the second penalty in history upon a coach.

Dickens was penalized for offering prospects room, board, books, tuition, fees and a sum of money each month. Regulations permit aid only on the basis of computed need, with students contributing to their own support to the extent of their family finances, and in no event more than board, room, books, tuition and fees.

Wells said Dickens will be suspended effective Aug. 5.

Dickens came to Indiana only this year as the successor to Bernie Crimmins. He previously coached at Wyoming and brought his staff of assistants with him to Indiana. The suspension puts him on the sidelines before he has coached his first Big Ten game.

There was no immediate indication from Wells whether Indiana would hire an interim coach for the period of suspension, but Dickens indicated no such coach would be added.

Von McDaniel Hurls One-Hit Shutout as Cardinals Win Two Games from the Pirates

By United Press

Von McDaniel added the season's most spectacular pitching performance to his amazing achievements today while the St. Louis Cardinals added an edge in the vital "lost column" to their reasons for believing they'll come out on top in the National League's fantastic five-team race.

The 18-year-old Von, who signed a $50,000 bonus contract only six months ago, pitched a one-hitter Sunday as the Cardinals whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 and 9-8.

Gene Baker's second-inning double was the blow that deprived McDaniel of the first perfect game in modern National League history as he fanned four and did not permit another runner to reach base.

The sweep enabled the Cardinals to move within three percent age points of the first-place Milwaukee Braves, who split with the New York Giants, and left them with a 55-40 won-lost record.

They have a one-game edge in the lost column on both the Braves and third-place Brooklyn Dodgers and a two-game edge in the same column on the Cincinnati Redlegs and Philadelphia Phillies.

McDaniel's victory was his fifth against two losses and his second shutout. His four previous wins were over contenders and he now has yielded only 38 hits in 57 innings while compiling a 2.68 ERA.

His strikeouts outnumber his walks (supposed bugaboo of young pitchers), 28-15.

Homer Wins Nightcap
The boy was all the Cardinals required in the opener but they needed the combined efforts of three men to win the nightcap.

INDIANA GRID
Coach Dickens
Is Suspended

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana football coach Phil Dickens was suspended by the Big Ten for one year today for offering illegal payments to prospective athletes.

It was the most severe penalty upon an individual in conference history.

The suspension meant that Dickens will not be able to participate in coaching the Hoosiers for the 1957 season and unless the university successfully bids for his reinstatement next December, he also will miss the 1958 spring practice and recruiting.

The penalty was imposed by the conference faculty representatives at a special meeting at which President Herman B. Wells of Indiana accepted the decision and expressed his confidence in Dickens.

Scenes of 27th Annual Ozark Tour

OVERFLOW OF EATERS from counter inside highway eatery at high observation point a mile south of Eddyville on State Rt. 145. Picture was taken from upper deck of observation tower.

Twenty-eight persons enjoyed all of the 27th annual Ozark tour here July 21-23 and 15 others took part in some of the tour. The tour was under the direction of Guides William Farney of Harrisburg and Lowell Dearing of Mt. Vernon.

Three current objectives of the Ozark Tour group are:

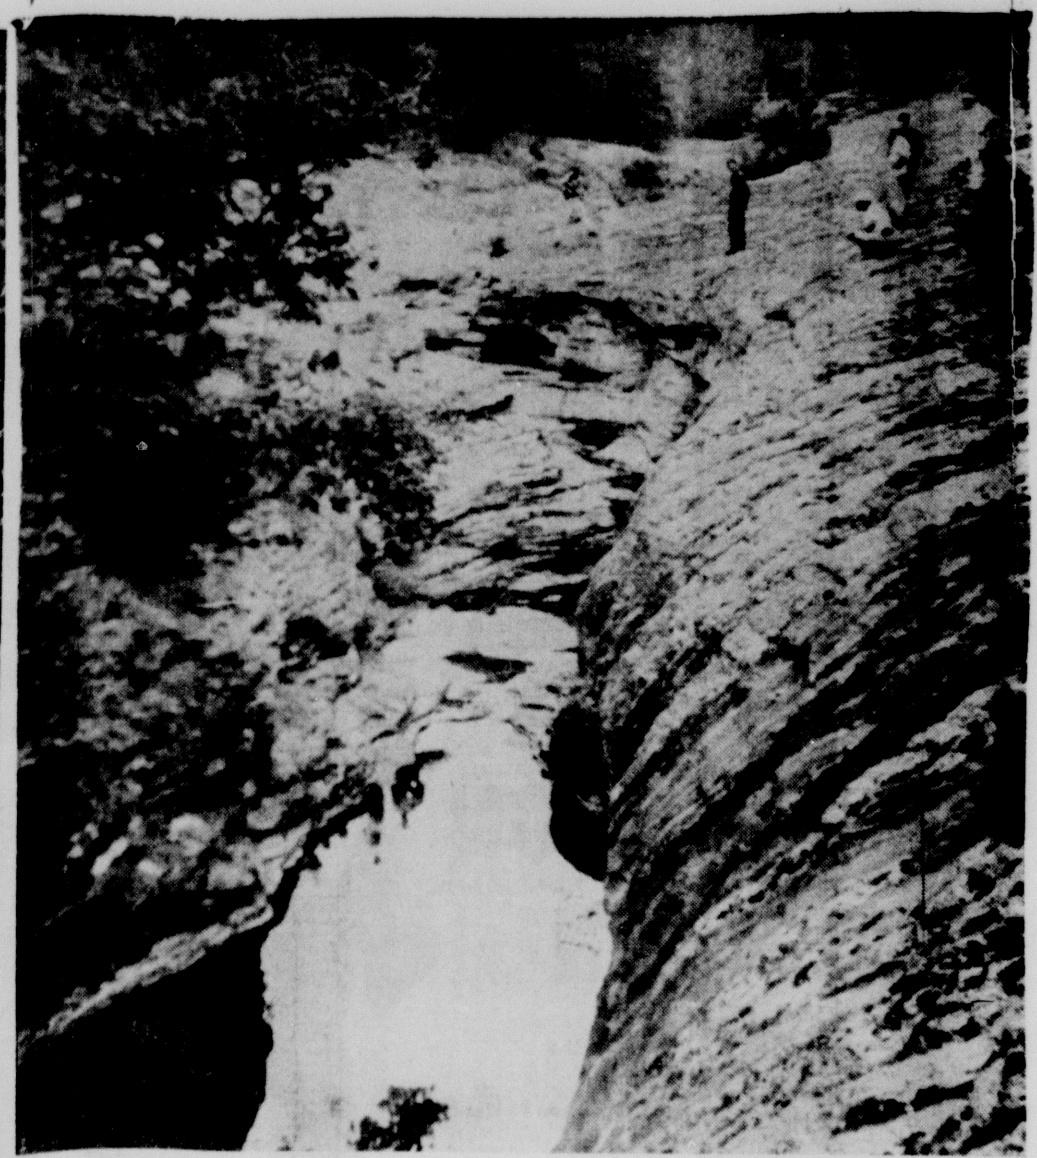

- 1—Placing permanent markers along the Trigg Memorial Ozark Trail and also signs directing to side attractions;
- 2—Better roads into the Garden of the Gods;
- 3—Membership with Southern Illinois Incorporated to stress recreation and scenic spots along with industrial activity. Arch Voight of Du Quoin is the group's representative on the SII board and Dearing is alternate.

The main objective of the Ozark tour members is enjoyment of area scenic spots that they might direct others from far-away places to the scenes in this area.

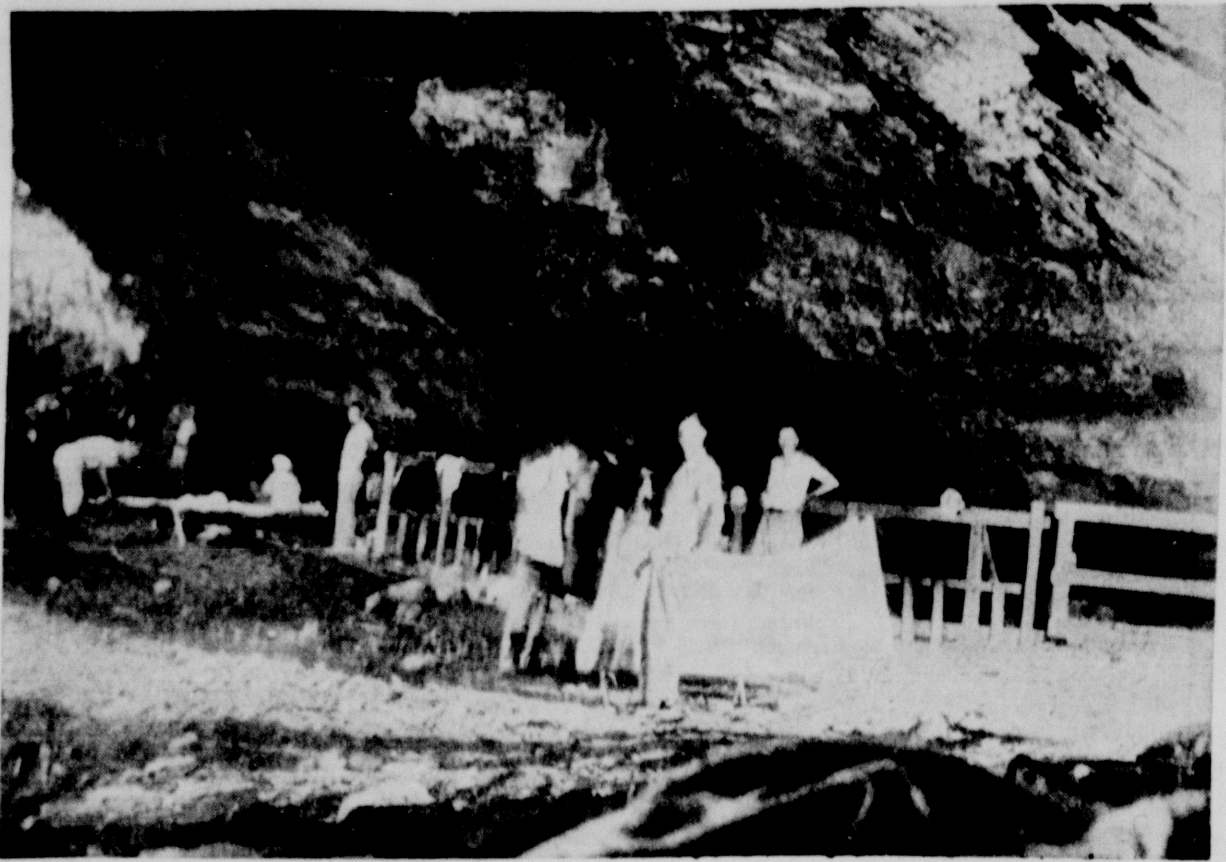

Lafayette Funk of the Hybrid Seed Company of Bloomington, on his second tour, urged that members contact automobile clubs and other centers of tourist information. He hopes to bring a bus load from northern Illinois into this area on a future trip.

STRAGGLERS on leisurely tour of Bell Smith Springs near spot where mineral water flows from pipe. Other Ozarkers are beyond bluff enjoying view of "Battle-ship Rocks," a choice picnic spot of the Shawnee area 14 miles south of Harrisburg.

FIVE A. M. AT CATARACTS above shelter bluff on Hill branch of Bell Smith Springs recreation area of Shawnee National forest. Water is always at least four feet deep and spring rains flood the canyon with a roar that can be heard a mile away.

BEDDING DOWN in scout cave four miles southeast of Goreville. Natural shelter is curved 400 feet along base of towering bluffs. Indian relics indicate that this was a favorite home centuries ago. Katydid lulled the explorers to sleep in early canyon darkness and whipporwills set off the alarm at 4 a. m. Note wool blankets.

TEAM AND WAGON for hauling bedding on slope too steep for bus. Trail below was too rugged for the horses. The bottom part of the lift was handled by rope, which whets the appetite for early breakfast.

XXXI

GARDE stepped forward; firmly his hand took Nan's bare, brown arm, firmly he drew her closely to his side so that she must go with him down the steps, through the hedge and around to where his car sat halfway into the garage. He put her into the righthand seat, pressed his spare handkerchief into her hand, got under the wheel, backed out of the drive—barely missing one of the cars on its way to the club—and whirled away down the street, all done too quickly for Nan really to have the hysterics which threatened her.

"Don't talk!" It was an order. He smiled at her, then turned his attention again to the road. He himself had been badly shaken by Valley's little stunt, and when they reached the club and he surrendered his car to the attendant, Garde's face was still grim with his knowledge that now he must do everything he could to clear Lillard.

He went around to Nan's door. He must dig up the hedge. He took his handkerchief and put it back into his hip pocket. He must talk to Lillard's lawyer. He put his hand on Nan's arm and told her to watch the gravel. He must have a real talk with Valley.

He indicated the basement door of the club, meaning that by that way Nan could slip up the back stairs to the powder room. "I'll meet you..." She smiled at him and departed. Garde strode around the building to the front door. He must talk to old Dr. Lillard—who couldn't talk.

It took him—and Nan, he supposed—a bit of adjustment to come into the lighted, noisy club house. The hall and lounge swarmed with gayly dressed people, the orchestra played sensuously in the ball room, and couples were dancing even on part of the veranda—laughter and talk rose like particled baloons.

They danced and danced. But of course Garde had occasionally to surrender Nan to one of the other men. He danced one with the McManus' house guest, but generally he stood at the edge of the dance floor and watched Nan.

At the end of that dance, Frank McManus signaled to Garde that he and Nan were to join his group for supper. There were a score of kindred souls at the big table, the men from the clinic and their wives, the Marquarts, the Rosses, the Copelands...

It was great fun, all this nonsense and laughter, this air of mutual liking—to be a part of a group like this. Garde caught himself being aware of his happiness. "One of the happiest hours of my life," he told himself.

He was included in plans being made—with some vying for his service if not for his company. "He can't help you with your pool before September," Dewey Windsor was telling Kibbler. "There's still a month's work on our patio."

But even with this catlike contentment warning his blood, it was a surprise, a shock really, when Bill Marquart, the commodore of the club, came around the table and put a white-topped cap on Garde's head, then solemnly held out his hand. "Be happy to have you come aboard, doctor."

The others had known that it was going to happen, that Garde was to be invited to become a club member. Nan had known—Frank had arranged this big supper group, knowing.

Garde was overwhelmed and showed it. He took the cap off and looked at it, touched the gold anchor with cautious fingers; he put the cap on again—his own cap! And it fitted! He stood up, his usual reserve pierced, his calm shaken.

All around the table glasses lifted to him and he smiled, his cheeks red. "Well," he said, "I'm mighty glad to be asked to sign on as cabin boy..."

"Too many already in that rating," Bill Marquart was telling Garde. "You're ship's cook, or nothin'."

When the music started, the supper party broke up, everyone taking a chance to come around and shake Garde's hand. Tom Sandoxie was one of the last, and he pulled a chair to Garde's side. "I've got a little proposition to put to you, doc," he said.

"All right, all right," said Garde. "Make your pitch and let us get to our tangling."

"I understand," Tom was saying, "that you're living in the Lesley house for this summer only, and anyway you couldn't go on living in that relic. You'll be marrying, and with kids that kind of house..."

"Fast worker, isn't he?" drawled Windsor, and they all laughed, but Garde's cheeks were red with the excitement of Tom's prospectus.

"It won't cost you much to build," said Tom, with a baleful glance at his heckler. "Windsor owes you a patio, and it sounds as if Kibbler would be indebted for something like a pool... How about it, Garde? Are you interested?"

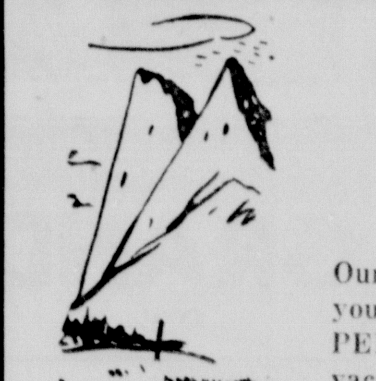

Garde held out his hand. "I'll talk to you again about this," he promised. "And thanks a lot! I'm pleased that you asked me."

Of course, when a man has chosen to ride a tiger—sometimes Garde had really enjoyed the ride like tonight—he stood looking down at his new cap; he had enjoyed it when Cornel asked him to be a volunteer fireman.

But that was no longer the question, whether he would ride or get off.
